

Simple Sentences

Name _____

Date _____ Hr. _____

Simple sentence:

- a. expresses only one complete thought
- b. reader is satisfied by what he hears and does not have any questions about who did what

The Ingredients:	An Example:	A Homemade Example by YOU:
	The student learned about simple sentences.	Box your subject and circle your verb .

student
↓
learned

Simple sentence with a compound subject:

- a. expresses only one complete thought
- b. contains two or more subjects doing the action together
- c. reader is satisfied by what he hears and does not have any questions about who did what

The Ingredients:	An Example:	A Homemade Example by YOU:
	The student and his mother learned about simple sentences.	Box your subject and circle your verb .

student + mother
↓
learned

BINDER
Q1-C3

Simple sentence with a compound predicate: ("predicate" = "VERB")

- a. expresses only one complete thought
- b. contains one subject doing two or more different actions TOGETHER
- c. reader is satisfied by what he hears and does not have any questions about who did what

The Ingredients:	An Example:	A Homemade Example by YOU:
		Box your subject and circle your verb .
	His mother learned about simple sentences and taught them to her son.

↓
mother learned + taught

Simple sentence with a compound subject AND a compound predicate:

- a. expresses only one complete thought
- b. contains two or more subjects doing two or more different actions
- c. reader is satisfied by what he hears and does not have any questions about who did what

The Ingredients:	An Example:	A Homemade Example by YOU:
		Box your subject and circle your verb .
	The student and his mother learned about simple sentences and taught them to their cat.

↓
student + mother learned + taught